

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Feb. 9
A PROMISING and pleasant day, with lively and lucrative conditions in all phases of living. The mind is under very progressive but profound and sober urges, making for definite accomplishment in the direction of fulfilled ambitions. Social, emotional and affectional qualities are also under deep and stabilizing impetus, which may tend to promote social or romantic enterprise. Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of progress and profit, largely through the exercise of a shrewd, astute and profound state of mind. This may inspire constructive ambitions which are likely to attract co-operation from influential sources. However, the social, sentimental and festive proclivities are likely to accent some very happy and important experiences.

A child born on this day, while keenly intellectual, studious, hardworking and dependable, may have strong social and congenial proclivities, combining to make a successful and happy life.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

VIVACIOUS BASQUE-TYPE APRON

From the first morning ring of the postman to the drying of the last supper dish, this gay style will be your favorite "home companion". For no one but Anne Adams could put so much dash into an apron. Pattern 4315 is such an easy sewing job too! The whole back bodice is cut in one simple piece, and its front panel forms a single piece with the skirt panel. Those pointed side bodice sections are on the bias and may be in gay contrast, if you wish, with pockets to match. The skirt has nice easy width. Choose lustrous, buttons or tie-rac for colorful trim, and make this apron of sprightly printed cotton.

Pattern 4315 is available in sizes small, medium and large. Small size, Apron C, takes 2 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric; Apron A, 2 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1 1/4 yards ribbon.

C. of C. To Confer With Council Again on Rail Crossing Problem

Report Sought by Committee; Move Under Way To Have State Corn Husking Contest Held in County.

The widely varied subjects, conditions and the possibility of Marion county landing the state corn husking contest, were up for consideration at a meeting of Chamber of Commerce committees yesterday at Hotel Marion.

The civic affairs committee, headed by A. W. Kette, discussed the problem of railroad crossing and decided to contact city council at its meeting Monday to learn what progress has been made in the last month.

Action Requested
A month ago representatives of the Chamber committee together with representatives of various civic-minded groups, appeared before council and requested something be done to correct crossing hazards. The Chamber has recommended mechanical guards crossing watchmen or a combination of both on 24-hour service. The city has contacted the railroad in the matter.

As for the state corn husking contest, for which Marion county was one of the early applicants, the Chamber's rural-urban relations committee, headed jointly by Roland Leeper and Harry Price, decided to contact the Ohio Farmer magazine, sponsor of the contest, and renew the county's request for the event.

Cooperation Assured
Louis E. Michel, secretary of the Chamber, said the Ohio Farmer committee will give full cooperation with the office of the county agent and with the sponsors should the contest be awarded to the county. Chamber officials informed the Ohio Farmer that they have every reason to believe a new agent will be appointed for the county soon and thus give

Church Groups Arrange Day of Prayer Program

Men and women of all churches in the city are invited to join in the world day of prayer service which will be conducted Friday afternoon at Epworth Methodist church under auspices of missionary societies of various churches.

Dr. J. Warren Hastings of Seattle, Wash., who is conducting a union evangelistic campaign at the church, will give the devotional message.

The program will open at 1:45 with a 15-minute meditation period during which Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence will play organ selections.

At 3 p. m. the leader, Mrs. Emil Sweeney, will give the call to worship.

The theme of the service, "In Quietness and Confidence Shall Be Your Strength," will be carried out in the responsive reading from a prepared program.

Prayer by Dr. Edward T. Warring, pastor of Epworth, will be followed by music furnished by one of the colored churches, Dr. Hastings' message and congregational singing.

Mrs. J. A. Carriker, president of the world day of prayer group, will explain the missionary projects for which the offering will be taken.

The service will close with responsive reading, an intercessory prayer and testimony hour, hymn and benediction.

The offering will be divided for four projects: migrant work in this country, Christian literature in heathen lands, Christian citizenship in health lands, and Indian work in America.

War, lack of jobs and racial antagonisms head the list of items about which high school students are most concerned, according to a recent V. M. C. A. survey.

CINCINNATI RELIEF INVESTIGATION OPENS

A. F. L. Group Charges "Incredible Desolation" in City.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, Feb. 8.—An investigation into "incredible desolation" a labor group charged today, found among Cincinnati's 21,500 indigents was welcomed today by Relief Director Omar Caswell.

"I know of no suffering because anyone was refused aid," Caswell asserted. "I welcome the investigation."

The city council promised a study of conditions yesterday, but a Council Labor council (A.F.L.) committee reported that it was "appalled at the terrible reality of suffering among relief clients and applicants for relief."

The labor group said "want was aggravated by loose and irresponsible management." City Manager C. O. Sherrill branded the charges "entirely false."

The city's relief plan, based on a principle that no able-bodied man willing to work should be denied the right, is one for which the city manager has received considerable recognition.

To carry out the program, projects of dirt hauling, brush clearance and building wreckage jobs have been devised for men on relief as "an incentive to find work in private industry," Sherrill related.

Caswell said there are 9,000 cases here and that the relief expenditures have averaged $300,000 a month, although the February allotment was reduced to $290,000.

The average payment, Caswell reported, is $23 a month. He cited figures for Cleveland, which he said averaged $19 a case.

Aid from the state for relief in Cincinnati has averaged from 31 to 50 per cent. Local communities are reimbursed for a certain percentage of relief costs, depending on the amount of money the state has available for such purposes.

Cotton has become Brazil's second most important export, ranking next to coffee with wheat in third place.

Models Threaten Strip-Down Strike in Glamor Contest

By The Associated Press
BOSTON, Feb. 8.—Models preparing to compete in a tournament of glamour against Boston debutants enlivened preliminary proceedings in the rival training camps today by threatening a "strip-down" strike.

Ruth Allen, captain of the models' team of 12 for the Feb. 19 battle of beauty, complained that the debutants had arranged for gowns from the city's best shops, while the models competing were told to "get their own."

"We will model in clothes as good as those of the debutants, or we'll stage a strip-down strike to protest," she declared, and demonstrated what she meant. (Very fetching it was, too). "We get our way or the whole show is off."

Proceeds of the affair have been pledged to Polish relief, but the models hope the glamor contest will help them further their campaign against "unfair amateur competition." They are seeking support for a legislative proposal to give models professional status.

Sponsors of the tourney hurriedly settled another complaint last night by setting aside a block of low-priced tickets after the models had charged the debutants were priced so high that their supporters would be excluded.

Lent

BEGINNING of another season of penance to commemorate the 40 days spent by the Savior in the wilderness finds much of the Christian world preoccupied with the un-Christian business of making the other fellow's existence as precarious and terrifying as possible.

Yet, it is not amiss to remember during the season leading up to Easter that Christianity is older and infinitely stronger than any of the systems of thought and action that have challenged it in the past or are threatening to undermine it now. It has survived by its own strength in the face of terrible adversity.

It has been denied in practice and even sometimes in principle by its own advocates, yet they have returned to it. War itself is a nega-tion of Christianity, but the spark of spirituality has burned steadily through the ghastliest blood baths man has been able to devise for his own debasement.

It will endure this time as it always has endured before. That is one of the few remaining certainties in a world seemingly determined to plunge itself into chaos.

A Story Twice Told

BRISTLING between the United States and Great Britain over the latter's right to seize and search American ships is a story twice told.

First telling was in the early years of the World war. When, as now, the British navy was determined to assert its authority on the high seas. Then, as now, it firmly rejected all proposals to play gently.

The British blockade grew and grew till virtually everything was included. Contraband, as always, became anything intended for anyone but the party that was able to grab it.

President Wilson and State Secretary Lansing raved and fumed and wrote acrimonious notes to the British cousins. In September, 1916, congressional anger boiled over in a law empowering the President to refuse clearance to any ship of any country that discriminated unfairly against American commerce. Thereupon, the British toned down their high-handedness, but before long the United States was in the war too, seizing and searching ships itself. Winning the war became its objective too.

The neutrality act was supposed to minimize this sort of thing in the latest war abroad, but any American who supposed the British were going to take good intentions for granted in conducting its blockade of Germany now knows he was dreaming.

Tokyo Gestures

JAPAN'S widely advertised determination to bring the China "incident" to a speedy conclusion was sharpened by abrogation of its trade and friendship treaty with the United States.
 New developments in Tokyo and China support Walter Lippmann's argument that the government in Washington has an Asiatic bear by the tail—and doesn't know it.

The military campaign has taken on new life.
 Successful attempts to cut off the Chinese line of supply from Burma and French Indo-China are reported. On the political front establishment of a puppet government in China is imminent. In Tokyo the army has renounced its domination over the government. Japan has not been slowed down by the threat of losing its trade with the United States. The Japanese are saving face, as usual.

As Mr. Lippmann has been pointing out, the government at Washington is in no position to do anything about this. It has gone out on a diplomatic limb. It has made a mistake the Japanese rarely make: It has been idealistic in a situation that called for realism. Japan's retort is the essence of realism. It is intensifying its efforts to do what this government says it should not be doing but can not prevent as long as there is war in Europe.

Giving the Cure

THE slush splasher, contrary to common belief, is not malicious. When he drives through a juicy depression in the pavement and sprays innocent bystanders as far away as the inside boundary of the sidewalks he does not chuckle. "Serves 'em right for being alive."

No, the slush splasher is thoughtless. High and dry in his automobile he forgets how damp it is on the street level. The ooze and water beneath the wheels of his car are elements of another world—the pedestrian world. That is his Achilles heel. He must suffer.

The slush splasher is also a pedestrian sometimes. In that role he hates to get splashed as much as anyone else. It gives him something to think about. And depend on it, he will get splashed—by abused pedestrians who, happening also to be motorists, can splash slush with the best of that careless crew when they feel a steering wheel in their hands. For some reason or other there's nothing like a steering wheel to make humans forget the golden rule.

News Behind the News

Allies Reported Ready To Send Armies To Aid of Finland as Soon as Possible.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The Allies are not stringing the Finns along the way they did the Poles. There's a wide open back door through which they can relax the Red grip on Finland.
 They can and will within a few weeks throw a Franco-British expeditionary force in through the Arctic to grasp the nape of the northern Russian neck.

Upwards of 30,000 troops will be needed. The landing can be effected at Pe-

 tamo, the Finnish
 port now in Russian hands or—
 if they decide to go the whole
 way and face
 open war with Russia—at Mur-
 mansk, where the Bremen hid out.

The time is problematical but
 the Fifth Allied
 council which has just concluded in Paris, decided to make the thrust as quickly as possible. It may take three weeks or three months.

This potentially biggest new break in the war is what the well-informed London press has been hinting about in comments to the effect that plans for Anglo-French aid to the Finns were speeded up in Paris.

News of the projected Arctic campaign has been generally aired out of Downing street in London and disguised as news concerning the defense available to the continent, in radio broadcasts and press accounts.

The element of surprise, therefore, is lost, but military men doubt that the Russians can do anything effective to block the step. The Germans and Reds could prevent extensive military help from getting to Finland through the Baltic or Gulf of Bothnia, but their naval and land defenses available in the Arctic are probably insufficient to prevent establishment of Allied bases.

Once such bases are entrenched, the Russians would have to withdraw from northern Finland.
 They could not stand such a force in their rear.

Churchill Plan

Winston Churchill is the leading inside British advocate of the scheme. Favorable also is General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial general staff.

Nazi Predicament

Some commentators have been saying Germany is winning the war. It she is a lot of well-informed government officials here are being fooled. Such glib conclusions, in their opinion, have roots in Allied plays for sympathy rather than in facts.

No one outside Germany knows exactly how much gasoline, food, and materials Hitler has or can get. Leaks have been made by the blockade. It is known, for instance, to be getting some minor seepings of oil from this con-inent, soybeans and some other products from South America through nearby ports. Increasing shipments of wheat oil from Norway are getting through. His hunger for milk, eggs and butter is being supplied by Denmark in heavily increasing, but still insufficient, quantities. He has plenty of wheat to last until next year.

 The only food supplies that are satisfactory, according to the ration cards in Berlin, are bread and potatoes.

But his industrial production is known to have dropped alarmingly to one twenty-fifth of its pre-war level. His military production is assumed to be yet high, but the shortage of such materials as rubber, manganese, copper, iron and steel has already played havoc with his manufacturing output. He is still let-tling iron from Sweden, producing some copper, and plastering the seams of his economic deficiencies with his plastics, but his predicament is obvious.

A proper guess would be that he can continue for six months to a year longer without the pinch becoming fatal. He has one here would bet a nickel that he can go longer than a year.

Fuel Oil Problem

It is now admitted he is getting practically no oil or fuel from Russia due to the inefficient Russian transportation system. Yet strangely his war consumption of this most vital product seems so far to have been little more than in peacetime. The oil fuels saved by banning use of passenger cars apparently has furnished enough to sustain the sporadic British bombing.

His four-engine bombers consume 440 gallons of gas to reach Britain from Kiel or Wilhelmshaven and return. As they generally travel in tens, each bombing attack on Britain uses approximately 4,400 gallons. His two-engine light bombers use only one-half as much, and his estimates are available to the consumption of military trucks, motorcycles, tanks, etc., on the inactive west wall.

U. S. Ship Copied

This new German bomber of which the British profess to be afraid is basically an American ship.

Embargoes notwithstanding, the Germans came into possession of one of our superior latest type ships when they shot it down from British hands early in the war. A combination of reliable inside story the ship was sufficiently preserved to enable them to duplicate its dimensions and power.

First of their duplicates came off the line only recently. It will fly 315 miles per hour and reach a ceiling of about 30,000 feet, which is not, however, high enough to get over the British spittles.

Bogey Men Unmasked

Latest Are the Long Feared Parachute Rifleman.

By DEVON FRANCIS

Associated Press Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—If Europe's wars have done nothing else, they have unmasked some of the bogey men who scared the day-lights out of civil populations the world over for a half dozen years prior to the actual outbreak of fighting.

The intent to have its frightful-ness at what seems to be more its true value is the danger of attacks behind the front lines by armies of riflemen dropped from airplanes in wholesale lots by parachute.

At least twice news dispatches passed by the Finnish censor relate Russia has attempted to drop troops by parachute, only to subject them to deadly fire of Finish soldiers who methodically picked them off as they drifted earthward.

Two days ago the Finns admitted the Russians had succeeded in landing some parachute troops in the far north.

Far From Perfect

It seems safe to conclude that parachute armies, while not to be written off as useless, need re-furnishing as to technique and tactical employment before they become a major factor in warfare.

With that profound enthusiasm with which Soviet Russia embraced flying, both civil and military, during the pre-war years, Soviet soldiery was indoctrinated with parachute jumping. Russia was not alone. France and Germany experimented, too, with the use of parachute troops.

German military periodicals mentioned how vulnerable the British Isles would be to an attack by parachuted soldiers. Even in the United States the army considered the possibility of enemy parachute troops complicating the job of defense. In the air corps' 1938 northeastern seaboard maneuvers defending planes had to cope with make-believe parachute riflemen.

In practical application para-chutes have proved to be a handy means of supplying soldiers who have outrun their lines of communication with clothing, food and small caliber ammunition.
 The Japanese have used planes for that purpose in China. The United States, experimenting with parachutes, has even dropped a consignment of eggs to soldiers on maneuvers.

But where Soviet Russia succeeded in landing as many as 2-200 men, almost a full regiment, in its peacetime war games, landing them under conditions of actual combat apparently has proved to be another matter.

Easy Target

A soldier is never a better target than when he is dangling helplessly in a parachute harness.
 From coast to coast he gets in some instances in the World war pilots were reported to have finished off their victims that way after a battle in which enemy pilots were forced to take to their "chutes."

Adding to that hazard of the parachute rifleman is the difficulty of forming a line of battle with troops scattered all over the landscape and of establishing communication with the main body of troops to achieve unified action.

Judging by the record, for the present at least the parachute's principal threat is its potential usefulness in delivering espionage agents and saboteurs behind the enemy lines. That was the use to which Germany put para-chutes in its blitzkrieg in Poland.

Durable Home

By The Associated Press

MARSHALL, Tex.—When F.
 Cruise saw a wooden railway shop being razed by fire here several years ago, he resolved to build himself a house that would not burn.

Now people from nearby states
 come to Marshall to see the house Cruise built for himself from model "T's," scrapped trucks, a discarded vault, concrete and 23 tons of iron pipe.

His new, cozy home weighs 70 tons. It's not only fireproof, but rat-proof, bomb-proof, waterproof, termite-proof, storm-proof and earthquake-proof as well.

A master welder by trade, Cruise welded his home into its present unmovable form in his spare time during the past six years. Mrs.
 Cruise often donned overalls and helped by holding the heavy pipe in place while her husband wielded the flame.

They made the pillars under the back porch from the housing of a model "T." For walls, they used double layers of metal plates with air space between. The finish is stucco.

On The Record

Hitler Is Seen as Jekyll and Hyde, Playing Two Games.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IF, FROM a military point of view, Stalin appears to be no menace to Hitler, from an ideological viewpoint Stalin is ahead.
 Hitler is a usurper of ideas. He has never invented an ideology at all. His movement started by the usurpation of the ideas of the German Nationalists, combined with ideas that he took from the Marxists. The combination distorted both. Now, he is usurping the idea of the world revolution, and is rapidly becoming a Charlie McCarthy to the Kremlin. This is history's supreme irony.

Dorothy Thompson

He is forced into this position, Hitler cannot, this column believes, conquer the west. He cannot seek a decision on the field of battle. He cannot do so because he has not the material necessary for a "real" war. He lacks the most essential ingredient for a large-scale offensive oil. For a large-scale offensive he would have to have from 15 to 25 million tons a year. He has not got it, and it is impossible to see from where he can get it.

For the kind of war he is waging now, 5 to 6 million tons will suffice. This is covered. From home production and coal conversion he gets about 3.5 million.
 From conquered Poland he gets another half million. From Rumania, with luck, he can get another 1.5 millions.

The British blockade and the lack of foreign exchange cuts off overseas oil. What can he get from Russia? The Russian wells produce 30 million tons annually, but Russia exports only a million tons and cannot greatly increase that quota. The rapid collectivization of the Russian farms and the peasants' reaction to it in killing off their livestock mean that Russian agriculture is dependent on machinery, which exports not oats and hay, but oil. Stalin cannot meet Germany's demands for a major war except by producing famine in Russia.

Open to Air Attack

Moreover, the Russian wells are peculiarly vulnerable to attack from the air. Eighty per cent of Russian oil is concentrated in Batumi and Baku, inside a very small area. A few bombs would set fire to the whole works.

Furthermore, Hitler's military and economic advisers must know that he cannot starve England.
 The German navy is out of the war. Submarines, airplanes and mines can combine to make life costly and inconvenient for the British people and the northern neutrals, and Hitler, who does not go in for "honor" and "heroism," considers even a fishing smack fair prey. Unarmed commerce of any sort, belligerent or neutral, is his particular meat.

Why does not Hitler bomb British industries and British ports in an enormous "blitzkrieg"? The German air fleet is still numerically superior to the combined Allied air fleets. But two considerations must hold him back.
 In the first place, even with her industries destroyed, Britain could still get goods. She still controls the seas and has resources all over the world.

In the second place, such an attack would certainly mean reprisals. And if the German industries were bombed, Germany would be finished.

In Double Role

What, then, is Hitler's game, if he cannot force a decision? As a matter of fact, it would appear that he is playing two games, that he is Dr. Jekyll and a Mr. Hyde.
 On the one hand, he would still love to be the savior of Europe

We Keep Hoping for an Honest

Nominating Speech Sometime at a Major Party Convention.

By DAMON RUNYON

THIS being presidential election year, we are looking forward with pleasure to the national convention and reappearance of some of our fine old American political customs. The one we like best is the nominating speech.
 A national convention is first duly organized. The contesting delegation from Louisiana is hurled out on its collective hip pockets. Plans definitely committing the party to defend our borders against armed invasion, to economy in public affairs, and elimination of sin are riveted into the platform. Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Jackson and Woodrow Wilson are given good plugs.

The chairman then announces the next order of business is the nomination of a candidate for president of the United States. The secretary Damon Runyon begins calling the roll of states—Al-luh-bahah, Air-ul-uh-uh, and so forth. As a rule a state high up on the roll call that has no famous name to honor by placing him in nomination yields to a state further down on the roll

Mary, Drilling for Role, Worried About Rehearsal

THERE was such unconscious distaste in Mary's voice that I laughed aloud. "Such devotion!" I scoffed. "But I don't think you need to worry about it. Olin's mother is strictly on the job, as you would put it, and Olin is—"

"Walking a straight line, balancing a weight on each outstretched hand," Mary finished mischievously. "Well I don't wish her any harm, you understand, but you won't see me shedding any tears if Queen Olga makes those balancing weights 50 pounds each."

"Mary! Mary!" I expostulated, laughing. "What a blood-thirsty little witch you are! What you need is work to get that venom out of your system. Come read these lines over to your self, yours and Olin's, and then I'll try to read yours back as nearly like the stilled fashion your father-in-law has employed as I can manage."

"You can manage all right," Mary said fondly. "You're the 'beatenset' mimic anywhere in the land. I can do a fair job of mimicking myself, but I wouldn't dare tackle this without your coaching. But let me have the paper, and I'll see what it's all about before we start working."

Praise from Mary
I handed her the paper, and she read the cues over solemnly twice. Then she fixed admiring eyes on me.

"You've done it again, darling!" she said. "You'd think that role had been planned from the beginning. Now what do you want me to do?"

"Listen carefully," I replied, "while I read them over and over until you have the sound of them fixed in your mind. When you think you have them, let me know, and I'll listen while you repeat them back to me. Then we'll go into the drill, and when I think your rendition is good enough to pass your father-in-law's trained ears, I'll give you Olin and put him through her. Then I'll take you together."

Summoning every bit of memory and imagination I had, I read over Mary's lines in the stilled fashion Philip Veritzen had taught her, the meaning for his choice being something we had not yet been able to read them seven times before Mary relaxed from the tense concentration with which she was following my rendition.

"I think I have them now," she said. "Will you pretend to be Olin and read her lines while I answer with mine? And be sure you swat me good if I fall down."

"I'll make you practice five times each faulty intonation five times."

"If you detect one," she said saucily, wrinkling her nose at me. But when I had cued her and listened to her lines, I realized that her boast was justified.

"Perfect!" I accepted, and she gave a sigh of relief.

Ready for Veritzen
"I'm so glad," she said. "I'd hate to tell on my nose so near the end of the road. But, oh! Auntie Madge! what do you suppose will happen tomorrow?"

"Nothing to worry you, I'm sure," I told her stoutly, burying my own fears deep beneath the protest. "Remember, I'm going to be with you every step of the way."

Blood Runs Cold

By Ann Demarest

YESTERDAY, Adrienne Wells, a nurse, killed of murdering Joan Kent. News comes that Lathrop and his wife are in the hospital.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE A Woman Suspected

ON THE way upstairs I had a strong hunch that all wasn't well. Of course, I thought, if Tim Lathrop were the murderer, then obviously as long as he was in the hospital the house was safe. It wasn't the one, then anything might happen. While I walked up the steps to the second floor I counted them. It was an old trick of mine, but when I counted thirteen I must admit I shivered. Superstition wasn't one of my weak points, but at that moment in the dimly lighted hall I felt pretty uneasy. And I kept thinking I heard whispers. It frightened me at first, but I heaved a sigh of relief. It was Mary Ann and Norton talking to-

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backache people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous wastes out of the blood. They help most people pass about 10 to 15 quarts of urine daily.

If the 10 quarts of kidney waste matter stays in the blood, these poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passing with a burning or burning sensation, shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait until your doctor for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 10 quarts of kidney waste flush out of your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

gether in the hall outside of her door. I pretended I didn't see them and walked into my apartment whistling.

By the dim light from the bathroom I had to screw the electric light bulbs into the fixture in the ceiling. And the room was dark except for that thin thread of light. So it was either nervousness or because the chair was wobbly that made me drop one of the bulbs as I tried to reach upward. The explosion was terrific. I almost collapsed, it scared me so badly. And even before I could get off the chair I could hear Mrs. Evans rushing down the hall, shouting for the police. She was followed by Norton. Then Mr. Kimball and Ishi came upstairs and all four of them found me crouched on the chair in the dark. I was almost hysterical.

"Who did you shoot?" Mrs. Evans screamed from the door way, and the dog ran into the room and jumped up at me, barking madly.

"No one," I snapped. "I dropped an electric light bulb."

I could hear Mr. Kimball laugh with relief. "I don't believe it," Mrs. Evans said, advancing. "What are you doing here in the dark? Tell me that."

I didn't bother to answer her. By that time Mr. Kimball had left and the room was lighted. He and Ishi left and so did Norton. On the way out he said, "Gave me quite a scare, blonde."

Mrs. Evans lingered in the doorway, obviously distrustful. "The going-on in this house are peculiar, I must say, and artists have a funny way of living." With that witless smile she departed and the dog followed her, waving his tail disdainfully. Then Patrick came up with a basket of wood. I was glad to have him for company as he built the fire.

I'd intended going to bed early, but the excitement left me thoroughly awake and I thought Dirk might be here, so I settled down with a book by the fire. My chair was facing the door. But I found myself reading a sentence or two, then turning to peer over my shoulder at the fire escape.

"It's nonsense to be so fidgety," I told myself firmly. So I fidgeted. After a while I happened to look out the window. I was sitting in a cell. I walked restlessly around the room, took a drink of water, powdered my nose, then sat down again to look out at the fire escape.

A Large Surprise

Then I thought of the newspaper. I'd brought Dirk's bundle of them upstairs with me and they were lying on the chair with my coat and hat. So I curled up again in the chair by the fireplace where I could see the door and the fire escape and looked through the papers. That the account of the murder would be well buried I fully expected. Where I come from in Ohio a murder is given all of the news of the day. I'd finally gotten accustomed to seeing sudden and violent death relegated to the depths of the New York papers unless the person was socially prominent or had an euphonious name.

I had a large surprise. The story of Joan Kent's death was on the first page of all three of the papers Dirk had bought. The reason for it was even more surprising.

Joan's death held no surprise until I came to the bottom of the column. An arrest was to be made shortly. A woman. As far as I knew I was the only woman the Sergeant suspected. He got interested in others, but he now seemed always to come back to me.

The account was continued to page 3. I was so excited that I kept dropping pages of the paper until I found the rest of the story. And there, much to my surprise, I found a fairly concise report of Sergeant Long's interviews with the people in the house. And more amazing—there was an old photograph of me when I won a prize for painting at a Paris exhibition. So it took, not eight years of hard work, but a murder to get publicity. I felt a little grim about that.

A soft knock sounded at the door and I jumped up. It took all of my courage to open the door and open that door after Dirk's warning. Much to my relief was Mary Ann Rogers. She was wrapped up in a heavy blue bathrobe over her green frock with a wool scarf knotted at her throat.

"Look a fright, I know," she smiled, "but it's so cold in our place. Do you mind if I come in for a little while, if you aren't going to bed, of course? It's pretty late," she added, then whirled around quickly as Richard MacDonald came up the stairs. She turned back to me with a breathless sigh. "I'll be with you in a minute," she said shrilly. "I forgot something."

And then she followed Richard down the hall. I could hear the murmur of their voices and I was pretty curious, but when she came back in a minute or two she said nothing about it. I told her I was delighted to have company, and then we pulled our chairs up close to the fireplace.

Mary Ann leaned back in the chair, stretching her slim legs comfortably before her on the stool. She lighted a cigarette, smoking thoughtfully. It was warm and pleasant in the room and the fire was drawing beautifully. I turned out all of the lights except the small one on the wall over the fireplace.

"Nervous As A Cat"

"You know," she bent forward unexpectedly, her brown eyes on mine. "It's getting on my nerves. I've been sitting around all afternoon and evening and I'm as nervous as a cat, and worried, too. Adrienne is in there crying all of the time."

I didn't know what to say, so I just murmured something non-committal.

"I can't make her stop. It isn't very cheerful," she added, with a short laugh.

I thought of the paper. "The Sergeant isn't going to arrest her, is he?" The papers said it was a woman that was suspected."

It seemed to me that she started, but it may have been my imagination.

Eight years ago the Japanese army announced the death of General Ma Chun-shan (above), Chinese hero. Now a Japanese army is sweeping across the snow-covered plains of inner Mongolia searching for this same Chinese warrior.

we stood motionless, too startled to move.

"Murder!"

The voice was Mrs. Evans' from somewhere in the hall.

Somewhere to hear her shriek was reassuring. She was such an idiot and spent so much time screaming that I imagined nothing serious had happened. However, I opened the door with due caution and we peered out into the hall.

Continued tomorrow.

PELLEY STARTS ROW AMONG DIES PROBERS

Committee Differs Over Questions Put to Witness.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Disagreement over methods of questioning William Dudley Pelley, the Silver Shirt leader, produced a fresh controversy today among members of the Dies committee.

After yesterday's hearing ended in a clash between Rep. Voorhis (D-Calif.) and Acting Chairman Starnes (D-Ala.), Voorhis and Rep. Casey (D-Mass.) served notice that they would make another attempt to ask any questions they desired.

They said that they particularly want to know about Pelley's quick switch from criticism of the committee to "100 per cent cooperation."

Voorhis had asked Pelley whether he personally believed statements attributed to his magazine, "Liberation," that President Roosevelt had derived personal gain from some of the funds contributed for infantile paralysis victims.

Banging his gavel, Starnes expressed the opinion that "that's going pretty far afield." He refused to let Pelley reply, struck Voorhis' question from the record, and told the committee members:

"I think this is a pretty good time to adjourn."

A few minutes later, Voorhis went before the house and protested the publication by Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) of an article in the current issue of Liberty magazine. It concerned conditions on the west coast which Voorhis said the committee had not yet investigated. The proper order, he declared, was first to take the evidence and then make the report.

Dies' article said that un-Americanism had made "more progress in California and on the west coast than in any other part of the country." It added:

"It is also true that the Communists and the racketeers have taken advantage of the strong anti-Nazi sentiment in Hollywood to get thousands of dollars out of film producers, actors and screen writers."

Dr. Hastings analyzed the biblical understanding of the term and said it appears to be referred to both as the physical universe and also as anything in life which will drag us down. Some men, he said, are dragged down by seeking money, others by seeking position or influence and some by their families.

Third, what Hastings told how Paul had been able through the power of the cross to purify himself. Dr. Hastings did not contend that religion shuts out sin from a man's life, but he did contend that it qualifies it with a "sensitive conscience." Both the Bible and modern psychology have two sides, the upper or the good and the lower.

Fourth, the power of religion. Summarizing this point, Dr. Hastings declared that religion has the force to renew a man's spirit in life.

Rev. J. A. Carricker of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church presided last night as he will do at all meetings throughout the campaign. Rev. E. H. Wierth of the First Evangelical and Reformed church led in prayer. Dr. Harry L. Bell of Central Christian church introduced Dr. Hastings, who is pastor of the University Christian church in Seattle.

Cottage Meetings Set

Another part of the evangelistic campaign, the series of cottage prayer services which opened this week will continue throughout the two-week period. The services are held at 9:30 a. m. each morning at places previously announced.

Commenting on the opening service, Dr. Hastings today expressed pleasure at several features of the campaign.

He was especially impressed with the cooperative spirit of the ministers of Marion and said "it seems to me to bespeak a new day for Protestantism."

The union choir also drew his praise and he described its singing as "the finest I've ever heard from a group of that size."

The general enthusiasm and interest of the people also was unusual, Dr. Hastings said. He remarked that many persons had come to him and expressed their hopes for a successful campaign.

Tells of Journey Here

In his greeting to his opening audience last night Dr. Hastings also spoke briefly on his trip from Seattle to Marion, which he began Saturday night. He told of passing through the Cascade mountains, the copper mining regions of Montana and also the wild regions of the Dakotas. Dr. Hastings arrived here yesterday afternoon.

SWITZERLAND ORDERS RUSSIAN ENVOY OUT

BERNE, Feb. 8.—Switzerland today ordered Soviet Russia's League of Nations expert, Vladimir Sokoline, to leave the country within two weeks.

The order was issued by both the Swiss federal and Geneva cantonal governments, rejecting Moscow's explanation for wanting to keep Sokoline in Switzerland.

Sokoline was dismissed as an undersecretary of the League of Nations after Soviet Russia's expedition and Moscow had tried to obtain authorization for him to remain in Geneva as "liaison officer" to the international Red

Germany Admits Huge Shipping Loss To Enemy

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—Germany acknowledged today the loss of 238,957 tons of shipping since the beginning of the war but declared that her enemies and neutral countries had lost 1,497,431 tons. Germany's losses were given as 42 ships and enemy and neutral losses as at least 408 ships sunk up to the end of January.

In addition, 354 enemy and neutral merchantmen were taken to German ports to be disposed of in prize court proceedings, said a high command communiqué. Germany's losses were put at 13,104 tons of shipping confiscated at the outbreak of the war in enemy ports; 82,236 tons seized and 141,528 tons scuttled to avoid seizure.

(The German figures are higher than from other sources. An Associated Press survey showed 828,104 tons of allied and neutral merchant shipping were sent to the bottom by mine, torpedo, shell or aerial bomb or through weeks due to war conditions in the first five months of the war. Germany's known merchant losses in the same period totaled 159,122 tons.)

While today's communiqué emphasized results of naval actions, it also noted that on land there had been increased patrol and military activity in the Saar sector of the western front.

women, schools and the residents of the community in general.

Emphasis was placed on the fact that while schools, service clubs, business and professions were represented last night, the plan is one in which the cooperation of every person in the city is needed. All meetings furthering the program will be open to one interested, it was announced.

Steering Committee Named

The naming of what was termed a steering or executive committee last night marked the first step towards working out a definite program. This group, headed by Mr. Hale as chairman and Mr. McKintick as secretary, will meet Sunday afternoon at 2, in the Y, to make definite plans to be presented at a meeting of the general group to be held at an early date. Serving on this committee, with the officers are Cutler McGrew, Edward J. Russo, Miss Margaret Roundy, Miss Ruth Kramer, Mrs. W. E. Orcutt, Paul Jaqua, Cecil Gabler, and J. J. Stafford.

Representing interested groups were Cutler A. McGrew of the Kiwanis club; Supt. C. A. Hudson, schools and Kiwanis club; Cecil Gabler, visiting teacher in the city schools and Lions club; Edward J. Russo, Lions club; Mr. Hale, Rotary club and Y. M. C. A.; James Lytle, Lions club; Karl Schell, Rotary club; James E. Frew, schools and Rotary club; Mrs. W. E. Orcutt, City Parent-Teacher Council; Miss Margaret Roundy and Miss Ruth Kramer, Girl Scouts; Miss Ruth Kramer, Miss Alice Donahugh and Miss Mary Lois Smith, Altrusa club; Paul Jaqua, national youth administration; Supt. D. J. Mills, county schools; and Walter E. Seamon Jr., schools.

SACRAMENTO VALLEY RACKED BY EARTHQUAKE

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 8.—A light earthquake at 12:08 a. m. (3:08 a. m. Marion time) shook windows and aroused hundreds of sleepers throughout northern California, but apparently caused no damage.

The shock was reported in all sections of Sacramento and its suburbs, in Grass Valley and Nevada City and in a number of other cities in the Sacramento valley.

France's Appeal Men Who Invent for Finland Looks New Gadgets Win Like Trial Balloon Honors at Dinner

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

France's public movement for "complete" governmental aid for Finland against Russia bears what looks decidedly like the earmarks of official inspiration or, if a milder term is desired, of official acquiescence.

"Complete" aid would mean, of course, pulling the Russo-Finnish conflict into the European war proper. This would force the Muscovites onto the firing-line as allies of Germany.

Having regard to all the circumstances it strikes me that the French government is flying a trial balloon far and high to see just how much public support there is for such a momentous move.

If this assumption is correct, it follows that the balloon test has the approval of Britain, since it is inconceivable that France would take such a step without her ally-in-arms.

Editorials Significant

It is significant that Le Temps, which is an authoritative Paris newspaper and thus close to the government, yesterday unlimbered all its editorial guns in favor of "effective, complete and total" aid for Finland. The paper asserted that it is no longer possible to separate the "Russo-Finnish" war from the European war, properly speaking, that the Soviet and Germany are in collusion, and that a blow at the Reds will be a blow at Germany.

Now an authoritative newspaper doesn't come out with a blast like that in war-time without having consulted the powers that be. Therefore we must conclude that Premier Daladier wanted this action taken.

The idea of allied action against Russia isn't at all surprising. This prospect has been getting hotter and hotter ever since little Finland's phantom ski-warriors first amazed the world with their stand against the Red invasion.

Had the Finns scurried for cover at the first assault, obviously there would have been no chance for allied intervention before the war with Germany was finished. But when the Finns threw the enemy back, they provided the allies with both inspiration and opportunity to open up a new battle-front on Germany's flank, if they deemed it advisable.

There are several reasons why the Anglo-French allies might want to make Russia a party to the war with Germany:

1. Under the allies' avowed aims they are morally bound to restore Finland's independence ultimately, and this looks to many like the best time to do the job.
2. The allied object, being to strangle Germany into submission by cutting off all supplies, it would be to their advantage to keep Russia fighting so that the Soviet couldn't spare supplies for hard-pressed Nazism.
3. The allies would like to get Germany involved in heavy military action, so as to burn up the nation's reserve resources.
4. Creation of an allied front in Finland would tend to prevent the Red forces from penetrating further westward in Scandinavia.
5. This also would give France and England a chance to get at Germany's right flank—where there is no "invulnerable" west wall such as lies along the Franco-German frontier to impede invasion of the fatherland.
6. They presumably would like to take enough starch out of Russia to remove the Bolshevik threats to southeastern Europe, the near East and India.
7. Finally—and this is important—the allied governments can do with a bit of action for the benefit of their own populations. The static war is tough on civilian nerves (and on soldiers' nerves for that matter).

FREMONT WOMAN STARTS CONTEMPT CHARGE TERM

FREMONT, O., Feb. 8.—Mrs. Grace Slessman, 56, prominent socially in the Clyde district, was in Sandusky county jail today, starting a 20-day term for contempt of court.

Mrs. Slessman, widow of a Clyde banker, was convicted of talking to women jurors at the trial last September of Mrs. Velma Baker Fink, acquitted of slaying her 10-month-old son. She lost an appeal last week.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 8.—The man who insists that inventions steal jobs will find as few friends among the gadget thinker-upper as a bathing suit has hooks.

Thirty-two "modern pioneers"—inventors from northern Ohio and western Pennsylvania—were honored here last night at a dinner under auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Ten who were asked their opinion of the subject of inventions vs. jobs insisted new ideas meant more employment, instead of less. Only two hedged.

All were emphatically in agreement with the speaker, President Walter D. Fuller of the Curtis Publishing Co.

"The inventors create far more jobs than they destroy," declared Fuller, a vice president of the N. A. M. "The number of persons employed in the automobile industry today is over six times the number employed at the peak in the horse and buggy business. It is said that almost nine-tenths of patented inventions do not displace labor, but lower costs and thus broaden markets and through increased sales make more employment."

Tracy V. Buckwalter, vice president of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., Canton, thinks inventions create work because "they lower the cost of producing goods and widen the market, so more people can buy and therefore provide more employment."

Another who declared flatly that inventors benefit mankind was Dr. Gideon Sundback of Talon, Inc., Meadville, Pa. He invented the slide fastener—popularly known as the "zipper"—more than 25 years.

BARRYMORE FRETS IN BED

Actor in Hospital Suffering from Exhaustion.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Only a select few could take a look at John Barrymore, who fretted in a hospital bed.

He was a victim of the amazing pace he had set since returning to Broadway's bright lights after an absence of some 17 years.

"A simple case of exhaustion, plus a vitamin deficiency," was the diagnosis of Barrymore's case.

His Manager, Captain Pierce Power-Walters, announced cancellation of all performances of Barrymore's show, "My Dear Children," for the remainder of the week so "he can get a much-needed rest."

Barrymore entered Mount Sinai hospital yesterday for intravenous feeding, ordered to alleviate a vitamin deficiency which resulted from a gastric disorder of long standing.

Hospital attaches said they virtually had to tie Barrymore down to keep him in bed.

Elaine Barrie, Barrymore's fourth wife whose reconciliation with him climaxed the actor's return to Broadway last week, was on hand to keep him quiet. She had a room at the hospital too.

POWER LINE BOMBING SUSPECTS ARE ARRESTED

By The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 8.—Authorities investigating a line bombing in the Indiana and Michigan electric company's power lines, which the company said had $100,000 damage, claimed confessions today from two of four men.

Three of them are in jail here. The fourth is held by Michigan state police. District Attorney James R. Fleming said he would present the case to the federal grand jury in Fort Wayne Monday.

Held here are Parish (Pat) Freeman, 31, and John A. Marks, 38, both of Long Beach, a suburb of Michigan City, Ind., and Frank Lung, 25, of South Bend.

Chief Foreman identified Marks as assistant business agent of Local B-9 International Brotherhood of Electric Workers, which has been involved with the Michigan Electric Workers association in a controversy before the national labor relations board.

This extraordinary picture shows a seaman clinging to the sinking destroyer Grenville where he remained an hour and a half until rescued. FIVE-COUNTY FARM CREDIT MEETING ATTENDED BY 650

Production Credit Association Holds Annual Session.

Some 650 farm residents from Marion, Hardin, Wyandot, Crawford and Morrow counties gathered today at the Ohio theater for the annual meeting of the Marion Production Credit association. Reports featured the morning session.

This afternoon election of officers and several talks were scheduled. The principal speaker was W. F. Gahn, president of the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville.

The session this morning opened about 10 o'clock. A noon luncheon was served.

The Marion association now has approximately 1,000 members and is rounding out its sixth year.

Garner To Enter Illinois Primary Against Roosevelt

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—A contest between the forces of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner for the backing of Illinois Democrats became a possibility today when friends of Garner disclosed that he might enter the state's preferential primary on April 8.

Mr. Roosevelt's name already has been put into the race for Illinois convention delegates by leaders of the state Democratic organization. The Chief Executive has given no indication of approval or disapproval.

Garner supporters said that a decision would be reached in a few days. The vice president's managers have been following the general policy of seeking delegates in states without "favorite son" candidates for the presidential nomination.

On the Republican side, the campaign manager of Thomas E. Dewey expressed regret that Senator Taft (R-Ohio) had decided against filing in Illinois. Dewey is the only Republican entered in the state so far, and his backers have challenged all other aspirants to follow suit.

Taft described the Illinois primary as "merely advisory" because its action does not bind delegates, and said that he lacked the time to make an adequate campaign.

All three of these men were either on their way or preparing to leave for the west to take part in Republican Lincoln day celebrations. About 700 party dinners have been arranged across the country during the week-end.

Dewey is enroute to Portland, Ore., for a speech Monday, and Vandenberg will speak in St. Paul Saturday night. Taft talked last night at Martinsburg, W. Va., expressing opposition to price control and "over-regulation" of farmers. His Lincoln day speech will be given Monday at Greensboro, N. C.

SLAYER OF TWO WILL PLEAD TO INSANITY

WEST UNION, O., Feb. 8.—Dorwin Edgington based his hopes today on a plea of insanity.

The 26-year-old son of a village councilman maintained innocence on that grounds yesterday when arraigned in common pleas court on charges of first degree murder in the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Craven Grooms in their one-room home here last week.

The youth had previously confessed the double slaying Deputy Sheriff Grimes Morgan said, relating that Edgington told of setting fire to the place after shooting Mr. and Mrs. Grooms "just as an afterthought" to cover his crime.

A grand jury indicted Edgington after deliberating four hours.

Betting Heavy on Louis-Godoy Tilt

But Most of It's on How Long It'll Take.

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The boys who bet on the "gettin' down" for Louis-Godoy tilt tomorrow night's Joe Louis-Godoy championship fight, despite the fact the Bomber is rated so highly on the next title defense already has been lined up.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who directed the activities of the fight, said the most expensive and dangerous move of the fight, broke all rules for fight publicity last night in announcing, to be one of one title tilt, that next trip to the post would be April against Johnny Payson, a thin-haired heavyweight from Des Moines who recently has run up quite a victory string.

Not Much Hope

Of course, "Uncle Mike" did not make the announcement by pointing out that Louis would be in a whip Godoy first, in 15 rounds or less tomorrow in Madison Square Garden. But not even the ocean fisherman's best guess would tell him he figured to deliver the champion.

Even the bettors, having examined the somewhat peculiar "schedule" of odds for the fight, in the 1 to 7 price on the Bomber to finish on top in his ninth title defense strictly alone. Instead, they climbed aboard another item as a clinch to get meat and potatoes on the table.

There was a quotation of even money that Godoy would last five rounds. The odds-makers have figured up a scale on how long Arturo would be around, making him 1 to 2 to hang on for ten and 1 to 4 to be on deck at the finish.

But the major betting was by the folks who dug down to put up their "fresh" on the chance that Arturo would get their money back on Arturo's durability and ability to answer the bell for the sixth best.

Anyway, there are a lot of folks who are going to be around to see the thing unfold. At this writing it looks like some 18,000 cash customers will be on hand and "chip in a pot of $110,000."

With taxes on promotion taken at Louis' 40 per cent of this should amount to about $40,000, and bring his ring earnings to over $1,700,000 for his skyrocket career.

Louis will be busy keeping several other of his records going, as well as the financial one. He has a string of seven straight title knockouts now and, as always, he'll repeat this time "yes" as soon as I hit him the first good knock.

Arturo, however, claims he'll have considerable to say about it. "I am confident," he proclaimed today, "that I will be the first South American to win the heavyweight title." Well, the odds still are 1 to 7 that he doesn't.

The world's greatest sanctuary for wild life is in northeast Transvaal, South Africa. It is 220 miles long and 40 miles wide.

RALPH'S CAGERS WIN OVER MIDWAY, 26-22

Bradley and Key Town Teams Beat Loop Foes.

Ralph's Snappy Service basketball team rang the bell for their seventh straight win to stay at the helm of the Industrial league at the close of last night's duels at the Y. M. C. A.

Ralph's outstayed Midway Restaurant's entry, 26-22. Bradley Clothiers just barely edged Bibler Vaults, 44-41, to retain second place in the standings. Key Town Camp laced Marion Business college, 58-44, to keep the collegians in the circuit cellar.

THE MODERN WAY
OF ADVERTISING
YOUR PUBLIC SALE

Let's pause a moment and think this thing out carefully.
Years ago public sales were advertised by signs tacked all over the countryside, and it cost quite a sum to have these signs printed and distributed and then, too, many bills were destroyed by wind, rain, etc., and that was money and labor wasted.

Now - you can save extra dollars by inserting your Sale Ad in The Star Want Ads because The Star goes into thousands of homes in and around Marion and these are the persons in whom you are interested.

Many auctioneers indorse newspaper advertising.
